Architectural drawing of a building facade. The roof is indicated by a hatched pattern. A scale bar at the top left shows a length of 45,000. The drawing includes vertical lines representing structural elements and rectangular features that could be windows or doors.

This architectural drawing shows a side elevation of a building. The structure features a gabled roof with a steep pitch. The left side of the building is finished with a hatched pattern, while the right side is plain. Three rectangular windows are arranged horizontally on the upper level, and a single rectangular window is located on the lower level. A small square window is visible on the far right. A vertical dimension line on the left indicates a height of 45,000. A horizontal dimension line at the top right indicates a width of 9,300.
